

Home

Welcome, and thank you for visiting the Josey, Young & Brady Realty website. In recent years there has been a dramatic shift in the way in which both buyers and sellers obtain information regarding real estate. The emphasis that we place on our state of the art website is proof that we embrace these changes and endeavor to bring that information to you in a concise and organized on-line format.

We also acknowledge that the internet does not replace the need for a professional Realtor® to be an integral part of any real estate transaction. For sellers, Realtors® know best how to prepare a home and maximize value, provide broader exposure to the market, and are more likely to generate multiple bids than a seller on his or her own. And for buyers, you will benefit from a Realtor's local market knowledge and negotiation experience. So when you have completed your "on-line" search, don't hesitate to contact one of our professional agents by phone or e-mail.

Thanks again for visiting our website and we look forward to getting to know your needs and assisting you in your future real estate transactions.